

We have been forced to use an answering machine to screen all in-coming calls, due to the number of calls coming in daily from telemarketers, especially those using computers. This continues, in spite of being on the DMA do-not-call list. These calls are very disruptive, and take up too much time away from my work. I find them very irritating, and legislation is needed to curb this practice. I am a strong advocate of free speech, but forcing unwanted free speech upon me in the privacy of my home is unwarranted. These calls are so invasive that they disturb the peace and tranquility of my residence. I definitely wish to be placed on an enforceable do-not-call list.

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to make this comment.
